

SPEAKERS FOR THE CAUSE

Views and Predictions from People with Good Chances for Observation.

A Democratic Office-Holder out for Harrison and Morton—Hopeful Forecasts by Gov. Bradley—Gen. Sheridan on the Gas Vote.

There is no lack of speakers at the call of the Republican State central committee for the coming week, and some of the most attractive and instructive talkers in the country are at its disposal. Gen. George A. Sheridan, who speaks at Tomlinson Hall this evening, is as brilliant a political orator as he is an accomplished lecturer in other fields, an excellent elocutionist, as well as a close reasoner, with an everlastingly fund of humor that overflows on small provocation, and an incisive, aggressive manner that pleases the average crowd immensely. Anna Dickinson, who remained here over yesterday, speaks at Terre Haute this evening and will spend the remainder of the week in this State at Lafayette, Crawfordsville, Logansport, and other points. Governor Porter and ex-Senator Bruce are down for a solid week's work, the former beginning at Thorntown and the latter at Greensboro. Other well-known Republican orators from home and abroad, are on the list, beginning with the 24th and ending on the 29th inst.

The following is an index of this week's Republican speakers and their appointments in Indiana:

Bradbury, General Bridgland, Frank McCreary, John H. Harrison, John H. Taylor, Gen. W. W. Barry, John M. Butler, W. L. Taylor, A. W. Sweeney and Oliver T. Marton, will make speeches at various points throughout the State this week.

A Texas Come to Harrison.

Ex-Assistant Door-keeper Nat C. Henderson, of the House of Representatives, who was appointed as a Democrat to guard the portals of a Democratic Congress, and who was eliminated from that position for making Harrison and Morton speeches during a recent visit to his home in Texas, was in the city yesterday, more firmly fixed than ever in his new allegiance. Mr. Henderson was an old line White and opposed secession, but went into the Confederacy with his State. He acted with the Democrats after the war, publishing newspapers in Georgetown and Austin, Tex., and was appointed as one of the door-keepers of the present Congress through the influence of the Democratic member from his district. When the Southern effort was made to pass the Mills bill Mr. Henderson opposed it, believing it to be more a sectional than a national measure, and intended to hurt the North more than to benefit the South, and, according to the passage, would injure the whole country, as well as reduce the laboring man's wages, he came out boldly against it and its promoters, and took the stump, as before stated, for Harrison, Morton and Republicanism. For this action he lost his position at Washington, and thus far the official charged with the payment of the salaries of employees of the House of Representatives has declined to pay him the amount of salary due up to the time of his discharge.

Mr. Henderson is thoroughly imbued with the principles of Republicanism, and is determined to sustain his position on the platform. He will likely be heard from further during the campaign. He says a good many of the Southern people would give in to the Democratic party, but he is a Republican party and its protective policy if they were not afraid it would be said of them that they had "gone back on the old soldiers." For himself, he is anxious to see the country settled on a basis of peace and harmony, and he is as ready as any man in Texas to say, "I will find that the free-trade movement as embodied in the Mills bill will cut down the Democratic majority in Texas 50,000 votes next November."

A Prediction from Kentucky.

W. O. Bradley, erstwhile Republican candidate for Governor of Kentucky, and who cut down the Democratic majority in that commonwealth to comparatively limited proportions, was registered at the Grand, yesterday, and talked over the political situation freely and energetically in conversation with a Journal reporter. "We find it hard to make people believe," he said, "that the Republicans of Kentucky are ever going to get on top. If we could convince you of that fact and get the help we deserve, we could carry the State this year. As it is, we are going to carry it ourselves by 1891, and elect a Republican Governor in that year. We have cut down the Democratic majority from 127,000 to 27,000, and all the votes we have gained have come to stay. They are votes based on conviction, and you will find that Republicanism in Kentucky means something. We are gaining ground steadily, and the same remark is true of our Republican neighbors in West Virginia and Tennessee. As far as your State is concerned, I have not been through its influence to form any opinion of consequence concerning it, but the spirit in which the canvass is being made, and the earnestness shown by the crowd who come out to hear the public discussion, are full of promise and encouragement. In Ohio, where I have just completed my appointment, I saw a canvass that could be wished. I never saw such meetings before as the Republican gatherings at Lakewood, Newark, Dayton and Zanesville, and the enthusiasm manifested was as wonderful as the enthusiasm shown by the crowd who came out to hear the public discussion. The canvass is not being neglected there, and you can expect a largely increased majority. I expect to spend a few days in this State, beginning my series of speeches at Vevay to-morrow night, and will probably go to Michigan next month."

General Harrison's Visitors This Week.
General Harrison's visitors from abroad this week will include several delegations from outside States as well as those from various counties in Indiana. To-morrow a large delegation from Wabash is expected, and on Wednesday the Tippecanoe Veterans' Club of Columbus, O., one of the largest veteran associations in the Buckeye State, and the Forker Club of Columbus, will be here, as well as delegations from Tipton and Elkhart counties, in this State. Thursday a delegation from Xenia, O., will put in an appearance, and there will also be a crowd of visitors there that day from Fountain county, Indiana. Saturday the John A. Logan Club of Cleveland, O., is booked for a visit, and on the same day the Logan Club of La Salle, the German-American Club of Chicago, and the Students' Club of Normal, Ill., will bring their assurances of support and consideration.

Where the Gas Vote Will Go.
"I think you will find the additional vote brought into the State by the development of the natural-gas field will ensure largely to the benefit of the Republicans," said Gen. Geo. A. Sheridan in conversation at the New Denison, last night. "In the first place, a good part of the labor brought in is skilled labor, who need the protection that the Republican party offers and the Democracy refuses, and none of it is so common but that it is capable of betterment. They told me at Kokomo that the new vote there would add 2,000 to the Republican forces of Howard county, and you can look out for a proportionate increase elsewhere along the gas line."

Chaplain Lozier's Work.
Chaplain Lozier closed his campaign work in Indiana for the present month with two speeches, yesterday, at Centerville and vicinity; but the call for him is so general that the State committee has secured a promise from national headquarters that the Chaplain shall return to Indiana early in October. A new list of appointments will accordingly be made for him, beginning at West Lebanon, Warsaw county, on Wednesday, Oct. 3. The committee hopes to send out to the Chaplain until the light is over.

Political Notes.
The First Regiment, Harrison and Hovey Guards, will meet to-night at 7:30 o'clock, in the Criminal Court room, to go in a body to the Sheridan meeting.

The two Democratic organs of the city, it seems, did not view the parade Saturday night through the same glasses. The Sentinel says it has figures to show that there were 13,000 men in line, and the German Telegraph says there were not more than 5,000.

The Republicans of the Eleventh ward will meet at Fraffin's Hall on Wednesday evening, instead of Monday, as has been announced. Every Republican voter in the ward should attend, as the meeting is of great importance, and will be transacted, and a permanent organization of the ward is to be effected.

Solon Chase, of Maine, the old leader of the Greenback party in the East, will speak at Plymouth, this afternoon. This will be the beginning of his series of meetings in this State in behalf of Harrison, Morton and protection, a cause which he espouses because of the benefits it offers to the workmen.

The Republican rally at Acon Saturday evening was a success in every particular. Large numbers of people were present from a distance, including a great many from Johnson county. Speeches were made by Warren R. King, candidate for joint Representative of Marion, Hancock and Shelby counties, and Thos. S. Rollins, of Indianapolis. The unanimous verdict of the speakers was that Franklin township is all right.

CONDITION OF THE STREETS.

A Citizen in His Complaint Expresses What Others Would Like to See Done.

Residents in every part of the city are complaining about the condition in which the gas companies have left the streets. "It is simply an outrage," said one indignant property-holder yesterday. "With perhaps the exception of Meridian and Delaware streets, there is not a thoroughfare that will be passable when the rainy season begins. Nearly every street in the city will have to be repaved or regaveled, and the city is compelled to do the work, it will make the city as good as very rich to consumers, because the greater part of the expense of the repairs will fall on them. Not one of the companies has pretended to put the streets back into the condition in which they found them. On a good many of the streets the companies have pretended to relace the pavements, but the work has been done in a half-way manner. Even the rains of the last week made some of the streets impassable, and the city is forced to do something. I think the ordinance under which the mains are laid compels the companies to put the streets in as good condition as they were before the work was begun. If such is the case it should be enforced. If the companies are not compelled to repair the streets under the present ordinance, there should be an additional legislation by which it can be done. For one, I should like to see the Council show some backbone in dealing with companies or corporations that are given city charters. There is not a city in the country that deals as leniently with the public corporations as Indianapolis."

DAWSON RETURNS TO DUTY.

He Is Told by the Superintendent to Pay No Attention to Captain Colbert's Order.

Superintendent Travis has sustained Sergeant Charles Dawson in his conduct Saturday night, which Captain Colbert said fit to condemn. The sergeant was satisfied that the captain had no authority to suspend him, and when he reported what had been done to the superintendent, yesterday morning he was ordered to continue in the line of duty, at least until some steps were taken to bring the matter before the board. Captain Colbert seems to recognize that he acted in haste, and it is not likely that he will carry out his threat to file charges against the sergeant. But patrolmen Brennan and Sorter, whose side Captain Colbert took in the affair that arose from the enthusiasm of one of the Chicago visitors, should be looking after their military duty to get on record what they really did on that occasion. Several witnesses say that the Chicago men, while the Democratic parade was passing the city, were looking for a chance to break for Harrison. Instead of admonishing him in a gentlemanly manner to keep quiet, the officers named caught the stranger and, violently pushing him into the crowd, threw him on the floor, and in their eagerness to get the advantage of him in his resistance to being thus outraged, nearly tore his clothes off. The difficulty, every one who is here, could have been managed without that excess of zeal.

From the Yellow Fever Country.

Secretary Eap, of the city health board, was notified yesterday that quite a number of people from the yellow fever district had arrived in Indianapolis, and that several more would come on the J. M. & I. train last night. He at once began a personal investigation and learned that those who had arrived, six or eight in number, were being quarantined on South Tennessee street. They all came direct from Jacksonville, having left there nearly a week ago. The doctor in charge of the quarantine said he does not think they brought any fever germs, and he does not think they brought any fever germs. The health officers met the J. M. & I. train last night but no passengers from the infected districts were discovered. Secretary Eap does not believe there is any cause for fear infection, yet he proposed to keep all of those who have been in the infected districts in the city until they are satisfied they are absolutely free of all fever germs. "Even if a case or two of the fever should develop here there would be no cause for alarm," said he. "It is soldiers who have fallen when the mercury drops below seventy, regularly at night, and it is doing that here now."

Commercial Travelers at Columbus.

Next Saturday is to be celebrated as commercial travelers' day at the Columbus, O., centennial, and the Indianapolis centennial of that day has accordingly accepted an invitation to attend. Messrs. Barry, Young and Fern, of Columbus, composing a committee on invitation, were here before yesterday to create an interest in the coming celebration, and to see that the enthusiasm manifested was as wonderful as the enthusiasm shown by the crowd who came out to hear the public discussion. The canvass is not being neglected there, and you can expect a largely increased majority. I expect to spend a few days in this State, beginning my series of speeches at Vevay to-morrow night, and will probably go to Michigan next month."

Six of a Kind.

While on his way from New York, Mr. Howard P. Smith met a heavy importer who had been visiting from Kentucky, and that State five brothers and a father. All of them have been strong Democrats in the past, but on the free-trade issue they are all Republicans, and will likely all cast their votes for Harrison. The gentleman argued thus: Temporarily free trade would result in large profits, and personally he would be greatly benefited as a result of it. He asks himself, what would be the final outcome? A starvation of business. People could not buy imported goods because they could not pay for them. All industries would be crippled, and in view of all these results he is on the fence with all his leanings toward Harrison, and a probability in his mind that he will vote that way.

No Blunders.

New York Mail and Express.
So far General Harrison has not made a single blunder, while he has shown a versatility, readiness, and fertility of wit and illustrations, and an epigrammatic point and power, that have made him the most efficient of all the speakers in the campaign.

In a Fix.

Burlington Free Press.
A Michigan farmer, who has bored for water sixteen times and struck natural gas every time, has written to General Fisk to ask if, under the circumstances, it would be sinful for him to pig his affections to beer.

AFTER a sea diet, to prevent boils and assist acclimation, use Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

THE FEVER AND ITS VICTIMS

Ten Deaths and One Hundred and Thirty-Three New Cases at Jacksonville.

Continuation of the Unreassuring Panic in Southern Cities and Towns—Depressing Effect of the Non-Intercourse Policy.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 23.—There were one hundred and thirty-three new cases reported today, ninety of whom were colored, and ten deaths, as follows:

Mabel Thomas, Mrs. Seether, Louis Bruner, Judge Whitney, L. C. Smith, G. E. Howe, W. C. Simmons, Mrs. Smith, Rev. W. P. Ross, (colored), pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church, and Georgiana Brown. Total cases to date, 1,878; total deaths, 212.

There is much ill feeling against a certain marine hospital surgeon, and it is probable that the Surgeon-general will be asked to recall him. The sick were reported as doing very well this morning. The inventor of a healing process called the electro-lubric cure, of which no body seems to know the nature, claims to have cured J. J. Dawson, a printer, who was attacked by the fever Friday night, and after treatment went to sleep and awoke free from fever. Dawson's case is a strange one, but this is the only known case of an apparent cure so far. The regular physicians condemn such experiments, and deny that any good can come of unscientific treatment.

How Non-Intercourse Works at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 23.—Since Friday, it is estimated fully four thousand people have left here. They were principally women and children, the wives and families of merchants and others who, on the announcement of the outbreak of the fever at Jacksonville, Miss., took alarm and sent them North, fearing, in the event of a case developing here, they would suffer great hardships. Business is virtually at a standstill. Country merchants cannot come into the city under present quarantine restrictions, and very small stores adjacent have locked their doors, so there are no mercantile transactions to be recorded. Local freight and passenger travel on all railroads is suspended, and all the outcome of the panic which prevails throughout this section of the country. It is the same from Louisville to the south, and from New Orleans. At many of the stations the south-bound trains, those coming from St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, and other cities, are not permitted to stop. The fears of the people are so aroused that a barrel of celery, packed in ice, sent from Michigan by express, was refused to be taken on the train. A small station north of Memphis, on the Chesapeake, Ohio & Northwestern railroad. This incident will serve to show the panic situation existing in this section of the country. Several business men here are so carried away with fear that, apparently, they have lost their heads. It is not a non-intercourse with the world, but a quarantine that has been established in working great hardship to many of her citizens. Mr. Jefferson, President of the Chamber of Commerce, is so carried away with fear that he has ordered the city to be put under a quarantine, and that is non-intercourse with the world.
